

What is e-waste?

- E-waste is a broad term covering a wide range of products that are powered by electricity via cords or batteries.
- E-waste is any electrical product that is unwanted or has reached the end of its useful life.
- Some examples of e-waste include unwanted or end of life items such as laptops, desktops, printer, keyboard, mice and cameras.

What are some other examples of e-waste that you can think of?